

5.CONCLUSION

Many other languages can be used in AI projects, but the fact remains that Python is still the best and should be given significant consideration. It can be incorporated into the developer's workflow alongside other popular tools.

Today, developers use the Python programming language for machine and deep learning projects due to its significant benefits.

