FRONT END:

HTML:

Hypertext Markup Language (HTML) is the standard markup language for creating webpages and applications. Each page contains a series of connections to other pages called hyperlinks. HTML describes the structure of a webpage semantically and originally included cues for the appearance of the document. HTML elements are delineated by tags, written using angle brackets. Tags such as and <input/> introduce content into the page directly. Others such as .... surround and provide information about document text and may include other tags as sub-elements. Browsers do not display the HTML tags, but use them to interpret the content of the page.

HTML code ensures the proper formatting of text and images so that your Internet browser may display them as they are intended to look. Without HTML a browser would not know how to display text as elements or load images or other elements. HTML also provides a basic structure of the page, upon which Cascading Style Sheets are overlaid to change its appearance.

CSS:

Cascading Style Sheets (CSS) is a style sheet language used for describing the presentation of a document written in a markup language, CSS is designed primarily to enable the separation of presentation and content including aspects such as the layouts, colors, and fonts. This separation can improve content accessibility, provide more flexibility and control in the specification of presentation characteristics, enable multiple HTML pages to share formatting by specifying the relevant CSS in a separate .css file, and reduce complexity and repetition in the structural content.

PHP:

PHP (Hypertext Preprocessor) is a widely used open source general purpose scripting language that is especially suited for web development and can be embedded into HTML basically, a server-side scripting language designed primarily for web development but also used as a general-purpose programming language. PHP code may be embedded into HTML or HTML5 markup, or it can be used in combination with various web template systems, web content management systems and web frameworks.

PHP code is usually processed by a PHP interpreter implemented as a module in the web server or as a Common Gateway Interface (CGI) executable. The web server software combines the results of the interpreted and executed PHP code, which may be any type of data, including images, with the generated webpage code may also be executed with a command-line interface (CLI) and can be used to implement standalone graphical applications.

PROPOSED SYSTEM OF TICKET BOOKING PORTAL

The aim of proposed system is to develop a system of improved facilities. The proposed system can overcome all the limitations of the existing system. The system provides proper security and reduces the manual work.

1. Security of data
2. Ensure data accuracies.
3. Proper control of the higher officials.

4. Minimize manual data entry.
5. Greater efficiency
6. Better Service
