Periodontics, as a clinical speciality covers a vast spectrum and also has a dual role as it is a speciality that lends itself to research with wide range of possibilities ranging from clinical field, microbiology, immunology, molecular biology, implants, biomaterials, etc. The need of the hour is to stay up-to-date with the changing trends in Periodontics, the newer techniques and materials and advances not only in India, but also around the world. PERIOPARADIGMS was created to bring together a nexus of invited speakers and amalgamate to focus on Oral & Periodontal Health through recent therapy, innovations in biomaterials and product-based therapeutics.
